PARENTS SELL CHILDREN IN FAMINE-HIT BENGAL

CALCUTTA, India (UP)—The West Bengal government today imposed stiff restrictions on social affairs in an effort to help alleviate an acute food shortage.

The government decreed that no rice or wheat products may be served at weddings, parties, funerals or more than 50 other specific occasions where more than 100 guests have been invited.

The revival of the wartime order was prompted by near famine conditions reported from many districts in West Bengal as a result of a prolonged drought. Many parents, unable to feed their children, have been ten months the Diefenbaker Government should meet Parliament next week with a clear conception of its policies. During the parliamentary stalemate of last year all policies necessarily were blurred and all issues of importance postponed. That period of uncertainty and delay is finished, or should be. The new Parliament must now get down to

From the Prime Minister's statement that he hopes to conclude he session before the Commonwealth trade conference in September it appears that he is not planning a lengthy or controversial legislative

But if no important new statutes are proposed, the Government's first budget, already too long delayed, will represent, in omnibus form, its general approach to all public business.

The first question facing the Gov-ernment (and no doubt settled in the cabinet chamber already) is whether taxes should be reduced to stimulate the economy. This is an extremely difficult and delicate issue about which economists are in open dispute, a question which has sharply divided the Congress of the United

On the one hand, the business recession has not begun to lift in Canada nearly as fast as Mr. Diefenbaker expected a few months ago. On the other, his Government faces a huge budgetary deficit without any tax cut as a result of its great increases in expenditure and the fall of its revenues.

It might rightly be asked whether a still larger deficit, created by a tax cut, would have any useful effect. How large must the deficit be to satisfy the Keynesian pump-primers?

Clearly Mr. Diefenbaker has had second thoughts on that question and on the economic process as a whole.

Last summer he seemed to think that the recession had been idioti-cally engineered by the Liberal Government in its infatuation with rev-

rates. His latest speeches show that he understands better now the causes of the slump. They are mainly the result, he says, of a fall in our export markets. This, of course, was the view of the former Government and of the Bank of Capada.

It follows that the position of our foreign trade is more important at the moment than the figures of the budgets or the price of borrowed money. A Conservative budget deficit has not cured the recession any more than a Liberal surplus caused drastic fall in the Bank of Canada's interest rates has produced no magic, as the Government expected, rather naively, a year ago.

The paramount economic ques tion, as Mr. Diefenbaker said a few days ago at Winnineg, is whether we can halt the inflationary spiral of wages and prices before we further damage our exports.

What has the Government to say about that? And as another vital part of its answer, how does it propose to deal with the tariff, a vital factor in foreign trade?

How far will it go in providing w protection for certain central Canadian industries at the expense the Canadian consumer and possibly of British exporters to the Canadian market?

Finally, Parliament is entitled to w, at least in broad terms, what objectives the Government will pur-sue at the Commonwealth con-

The forthcoming session as a whole is likely to be dull since a shrunken Opposition is unable and should be unwilling to harass the new Government which deserves the fullest opportunity to develop its

Nevertheless, it will be one of the most important sessions of modern times. For it must reveal, before it has gone far, the true character and real thoughts (as distinguished from election oratory) of a Government certain to be in office for at least.

In answer to a letter by G. F. Beale in your paper of the 7th inst. I heartily agree with his viewpoint to a point. But there are other ways of disposing of municipal waste than dumping it into a hole in the ground, so as to fill it up where it will breed rats and insects as well as disease, etc.

There are also ways other than burning the garbage which would be an eye-sore in the district with its ashes, smoke and flies, not to mention the expense involved. Or having it dumped out at sea to be washed back on our beaches.

Dr. J. F. T. Berliner, Ph.D., chemical

Dr. Berliner also states there is no such nulsance as smoke, fumes, dust, odors, vermin, unsightly dumps, danger to children, breeding areas for insects and disease. There would be no stream or water pollution or destruction of land values. There is no drainage, sewage or waste from the process.

A plant of this kind described by Dr Berliner could be built close to the city The one he describes is located at Mo Keesport, Pa., U.S.A., and was built for the sum of $250,000, and can handle 150 tons per 8-hour day. Only Age Knows the Value of the Emperor's Cabbages

IT was the fashionable ambition of every Roman Emperor to retire, after he had murdered all his friends and conquered the known world, to some little farm beside the Appenines and there grow cabbages. A vegetable garden was the final reward of imperial power. But with some two thousand years of progress we have at last discovered that it is not necessary to murder one's friends or conquer the world in order to grow vege tables. They will grow quite well in the of Canada without

Hutchison Hutchison blood, tears or con-quest (though not without toil and sweat). For a small investment an or dinary Canadian may enjoy all the pleasures of an aged emperor.

AGE, perhaps, is necessary to the en-A joyment of a vegetable garden. The thing requires a maturity of mind seldom found in the young. By a cruel paradox a man is usually almost too weak in body to grow vegetables before he finds gleasure in them, for the pleas-ure is solely in the mind. Only the philosopher will grow vegetables when he can buy them, much cheaper and neatly wrapped in cellophane, at any

Dr. Johnson (a great philosopher but limited in his philosophy since he grew nothing and was never happy beyond a man was seldom more harmlessly en-gaged than when he was making money.

That view is not popular today when the making of money is regarded something like a crime and is drastically penalized by law but even the thought ful radical and egalitarian will agree that a man is harmlessly engaged in growing vegetables. Yet there are lingering doubts even on that score.

MAN with a well-developed social conscience may feel a twinge of guilt as he places seeds in the earth, for he is thereby contributing to the surplus of the agricultural industry. He is creating real wealth, and the creation of real wealth is an occupation generally sus-pect in this well-managed era like bootlegging, moonlighting and other forms of racketeering.

Hardened by age, however, a man learns to disregard the conscience of so-ciety and his own. Often, in my younger days, I have paused, doubtful and con-science-stricken in the very act of depositing the first radish seed of the searealizing that, by creating wealth, I might disturb the delicate balance of the economy and injure some defenceless farmer. Still, I always managed to subdue my better nature after a hard struggle.

INSERTING the first seed is like extracting the first olive out of the bottle. The rest follow. One may start with very modest plans, only a few square feet of earth but one always ends by growing more food than any family can possibly consume. In the home of every vegetable grower there is a perpetual farm surplus

When we have finally perfected this almost-perfect economic system and improved our present rather crude code of regulation the private vegetable grow will be exterminated by law along with all the other social saboteurs. In a few more years, never doubt it, the state will require a man to have a licence before he can grow anything more economically dangerous than flowers.

Therefore, if you wish to indulge in this desperate sport you had better start immediately, for little time is left. The all-wise state will soon move into your backyard. An army of inspectors will discover, for all your attempts to con-ceal them, a row of bootleg carrots and a secret hoard of illegal broad beans growing between your licensed rows of petunias. You will end in the police court with those horrid exhibits laid be-fore the magistrate like contraband liquor or habit-forming drugs.

THAT is the trouble with vegetable growing-it is indeed habit forming and quite incurable. Nevertheless, as I laid out my thirty-fourth successive annual garden it occurred to me that I was performing the only useful act of my life. The same thing must have occurred to many other sedentary and superflous wage-earners.

The man who makes something usable, who performs some essential pub-

A vast and growing multitude of modern men creates nothing that society could not do very well without. It could do very well, for example, without the work I am performing at this mo as I am frequently reminded by many

THERE are numerous others, some in very high and well-paid places, of whom the same could be said, but I leave them to their own consciences and to the taxpayers who pay their wages. Every man must settle these nice questions of honor for himself.

But any man who wastes his whole day at an office doing things better left undone can redeem himself, in these long spring evenings, by producing at least something of value. He can feed himself, in part anyway, and there will always be some extra supply for his neighbors.

The man who grows vegetables may a failure in every other aspect of his life, he may end up as a pitiable mil-lionaire or even as a senator in another vegetable kingdom, but he has not failed entirely. His deadweight on society is counterbalanced in some degree by a few pounds of nourishment. And as-suredly his own weight will be drastically reduced by toil before the season

Little Ross Bay, it seems, could be freated the same way. Nature has provided a basin for which only few plugs are required. If the necessary concrete work were done, the pool could be filled with fresh water. An ideal place would be provided for children to enjoy the water and possibly learn to swim, Moreover, at modest expense, the

Extensive work has been done at the other end of Big Ross Bay, in the Clover Point region. It could be nicely complemented by a children's pool at the other tip of the crescent. WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

By GUS SIVERTZ He Would Whip Up the Horses and Trot Along

T is perhaps difficult to picture it now but there was a day, not so very long ago, when the streets of Victoria were innocent of the exhaust fumes of sightseeing buses. When the West Saanich Road was a dirt farm road of sharp curves and sudden and steep little and rises; of places where the wag-on wheels rolled over live rock. There was no Rutchart's gardens then to thrill the present stream of tourists spots as though they were on some sort of pilgrimage so that been a rock quarry."

Instead someone had conceived the brilliant idea of meeting the steamers with four-horse tallyhos with large rubber-tired wheels on sleek white-enamelled I believe their success was instant and during the summer season the tourists were trotted about the lovely old city between the arrival and departure of the ships on the famed triangle run.

It was just possible, in the time available, to go through the downtown section of the city, out to Beacon Hill Park, along the waterfront to Oak Bay and back to the Canadian Pacific wharves, one or two horse-drawn buses do Gordon Head, to Cedar Hill and Cordova

Bay or to the nicely patterned farm lands of Saasich, and Butchart's Gardens, as I said, had not been conceived in Mrs. art's fertile mind. But there was then, and is now, a tiny deep backwater of the Saanich Arm just a good, lusty stone's throw from the present garden paradise which was then a very, very dusty stone quarry from which the Butcharts hauled the rock to be crushed into powder in their cement mill.

The name of this backwater is Tod Inlet and it was then more sought by fishermen than Brentwood is today largely because there existed at that time no such pleasant spot as Brentwood on the fine sunny site from which ply the ferries to Mill Bay.

One reached Too Inlet by the simple expedient of boarding the old V & S railway at Victoria, riding its dusty and swaying carriages to Keatings and transferring to a stage coach-really!

It was a wonderful ride in strawberry time and if one was reasonably fast afoot he could jump down at hill, leap a fence and snatch a handful of sun-ripe strawberries and race ahead to catch the stage before the horses started to trot down the next slope. At Tod Inlet the driver held his team hard and his foot was pressed down on the brake as the stage seemed to want to override the on the last steep decline

And here was the little cement with everything in a shroud of light grey dust; the workers' gardens bravely battling the relentlessly encroaching pall of infinitely fine particles that rained down on the earth endlessly.

Like as not one would find Mrs. Butchart-in their early days-carrying out tests of their product in the tiny chemist shop in which the quality of Butchart's cement was constantly checked.

And as the fishermen stowed their gear and wrestled with their tiny two-cycle engines, then headed out into Saanich Arm to troll for salmon, none ever thought that the unsightly, dusty stone quarry would ever become a thing of internationally known beauty.

Before this digression intervened I started to tell you about our first tallyhos and in particular of one of the earliest drivers of the "four-in-hand

He was a monstrous man, almost as wide as he was tall and the only name people knew him by was "Winnipeg." His voice was as raucous as that of a circus barker but there was in him a wealth of geniality and he regaled passengers with wondrous tales of the places, homes and people they passed on their sightseeing tour with him.

His route skirted Beacon Hill Park Douglas Street and he would leave his load of tourists gaping when he called out: "Ladies and gentlemen, on your right is Goodacre Lake; it has no inlet or outlet but is fed by the weeping willows on its banks."

And he would whip up the horses and and he would whip up the norses and trot along, shaken by deep, rumbling chuckles while his passengers wondered hav much of what he had told them was pure eyewash.

The Smith and Shadbolt paintings I find especially good; Bin-ning's assembly of all his favorite motifs is almost too typical - almost, indeed,

If I had to rank these artists on the basis of this evidence alone they would come out in roughly this order: Smith, adbolt, Binning, Bruno Bobak, Plaskett, Molly Bobak, Korner, Hughes, Harris.

I am fairly sure that a province-wide popular poll would more or less reverse these standings, though I should like to think that all of us, whether we wield pen, peevy or power-saw, seine-net or slide-rule, would agree about the Harris

By dint of earnest inquiry this column managed to gather that the fuss had some-thing to do with waterworks. To the ordinary ratepayer, the waterworks is a place which supplies him with his city water. But it seems that there is more to it than that. We have here, so I learn, such a waterworks. Let us label it the working, or wet, waterworks and forget it; it is too important and busy to get involved in litigation. The waterworks about which the two local authorities are locked in furious combat is a disused, or dry waterworks, which nobody can deny is splendid sort of thing to get litigous about.

Sidelight on the problems of lyric-writing, by visiting Oscar Hammerstein. A line in the song Oh What a Beautiful Morning in the show Oklahoma was originally "the corn is as high as a cow pony's eye." But before the musical opened Hammerstein happened to be at a farm and noticed that corn grows well above a cow pony's eye. So he had to think up a substitute that fitted the music, which explains how the elephant, far less ap-propriate in the state of Oklahoma, got into

Not-Too-Handy Man Can Build Attractive Semipermanent Patio

By MR. FIX

A patio made of loose blocks or bricks is fairly easy to put in and yields much pleasure for the small outlay of cash involved. In spite of its semipermanent nature, it holds up remarkably well.

Growth in popularity of such installations is due to two things: no skilled work such as cement finishing is required and you don't need a large crew to omplete the job.
There are special patio blocks

A new director makes his debut for Victoria Theatre Guild at Langham Court Theatre tonight. He is John Poulton and the play is a somewhat naughty comedy-"Dear Charles."

Mr. Poulton has directed plays in various parts of the world, including England, France, East and West Africa. It is his opinion that "Dear Charles" is one of the funniest plays ever written.

VERNON (CP)—The vice-chairman of the B.C. tentennial Games Association says recreation is no longer a pastime but "a constant process of education and adjustment of sights."

Prof. Bob Osborne of UBC spoke Friday night at a banquet prior to the opening of the first conven-tion of the B.C. Recreation Association. "Recreation is not like a dose of medicine so that undesirable consequences will not be contacted. But it is something which will enrich community life and be rewarding for youth and people of all years," he

Hugh Shantz, Speaker of the Legislature, said recreation is "a basic need, a universal hunger. We must have leadership. In every community there are those who can lead. We can and will train them."

NEW YORK (NEA)-Maxie Kosof popped in en route nome from the American Bowling Congress Tournament in yracuse, where he hustled name keglers for his fourth annual Original World Endurance Classic in Ogden, Utah, June 28-

August 4.

When Kosof suggested his 40-consecutive game test for men and 20-consecutive game test for women three years ago, he was regaled and ridiculed from coast to coast. And a company of the coast of the coas how could this one time prize fighter out of Rochester, N.Y., put such a production across in Ogden, the beautiful city in the purple foothills of the Wasatch Range, which is rather difficult to reach for most?

Kosof was told that

"bowlers" would drop dead all over the place," "endurance has no place in bowling," and that he was setting the game back 50 years. But Kosof, who also pro motes fights in Ogden, was looking for a new idea for his Ogden alleys, and pointed out that for 50 years a mere nine games three each in singles, doubles and the team event-had determined ABC championships.

"Isn't it about time," he asked, "we demonstrated that the top bowler must be an athlete, not just some overstuffed guy enjoying himself between beers?"

The purpose of the Endurance Classic is to prove that superior bowlers are good athletes. Forty consecutive games take about 13 hours, without a break, except for necessities. The bowler has to be quite a man and in shape to stay on his feet and knock down pins for that length of time.

In three years, many have dropped out, but no one dropped dead and not a single sharpshooter has come up with anything more serious than a sore thumb.

. . . "best athlete"

Kosof attracted an unusually fine field for his inaugural, most of them came from the Pacific Coast and southwest. Last year there were 995 entries from 37 states and Canada. Indications are that the field will be considerably larger this trip. The foremost stars have entered—Don Carter. Buzz Fazio, Billy Welu and Lee Jouglard, among the men, and Marion Ladewig. Sylvia Wene and Esther Woods.

men, and Marion Ladewig. Sylvia wene and Esther Woods, last year's winner from Los Angeles, heading the women.

The only bowling event that comes close to matching the Endurance Classic as a test of not only skill, but competitive spirit and courage, is the World Match Play, and there the giants have nine days in which to roll 100 games.

The World Endurance Classic is the only tournament with the course of the course which gives the average man and women bowler an equal chance against the higher-average kegler.

Buzz Fazio repeated at scratch a year ago with a new record of 8,525, winning $3,460.50. Fazio, his dark eyes twinkling like those of Eddie Arcaro after a Derby victory, dared Kosof to post $5,000 this year in special added money for an average of 225 or better. And Maxie did it.

Kosof considers Fazio, winner of everything but the All-Star, the greatest athlete in the country.

"In what other game," he asks, "could a five-foot seven-inch, 49-year-old beat a bunch of top youngsters like six-foot-four, 225-pound, 25-year-old Billy Welu?"

See what Maxie Kosof was getting at? The Original World Endurance Classic gave Buzz Fazio another chance to do it.

From School to Sea!

THE AMBITIOUS YOUNG MAN CAN BECOME A NAVAL OFFICER THIS FALL

through the Venture Plan

Were you 16 to 18 years old at the first of the year? Are you getting your Junior Matric this summer?

If so, opportunity beckons! The Navy will advance selected students to senior matriculation as naval cadets qualifying for a well paid responsible career with travel and adventure as a naval officer at sea or in the air above

Investigate the Navy's "Venture" Plan NOW!

The "Venture" Plan is a main channel for becoming a Naval Aviator, with the added advantage of special flying pay. Flying training is available to you if you qualify and choose. A "Venture" flyer is a sailer tool Uniforms are provided to cadets on entry. Food, living quarters, dental and medical care, tuition, books, instruments, etc., are all furnished by the Navy. Thirty days annual leave with pay is granted. By acting now, you can look forward to wearing a naval officer's uniform within months. You are enrolled on a seven-year appointment with opportunities to qualify for transfer to a permanent commission at a later date. You can have your chance to fly with the fleet!

interest will also be displayed.

The bazaar will be held in the basement of the Baptist Church. Pre-school children accompanying parents on Hos-pital Day will be entertained with a special showing of films. Main project of the auxiliary this year is to raise funds to assist the hospital board in pur-chasing a new X-ray machine, since the present machine has been found to be inadequate for the present needs of the district. All proceeds from the bazaar will be used for this

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

The Long View

COURTENAY ARGUS— With the stage apparently set for formation of a Greater District Water Board for the Comox Valley, we hope the various municipal areas and intervening districts involved will not tarry when they meet this month.

We say the stage apparent ly set because the government has completed its survey of water resources in this area and the basic information presumably is available to make the necessary decisions on proceeding and on the general form of approach.

Our thoughts are prompted by the fact that water supply, unfortunately, more than once has been a contentious issue in the Comox Valley. We say openly now, we hope there will be no division between the "haves" and the "havenots" on the setting up of a district water board.

CAMPBELL RIVER COUR-IER Men who are at the head of our great transit systems are practical men who have worked their way to the top through their ability. They are men with a practical knowledge of the complete operation in the movement of passengers and freight.

With the diesel engine replacing the old coal-burning locomotive there is now no need for a fireman on the locomative-these men, who know their business say so, and they are upheld by the board of transport commis-sioners—yet, a few hundred firemen are going to tie up one of our great transporta-tion systems only to retain their status as firemen.

Surely the experts of rail-

For the convenience of the public, Canadian Pacific now provides a special parking lot at the Nanaimo Ferry Terminal for drivers wishing to leave their cars while visiting the Mainland.

Charges are very nominal ... you may park up to 12 hours for only 50c. And you have the advantages of a lot that is properly fenced, checked regularly, fully illuminated and conveniently located.

The new Canadian Pacific lot is a public service. It is a sincere effort to relieve the parking congestion at the regular Canadian Pacific terminal lot-which, in fairness, is now limited to one hour free parking for Canadian Pacific patrons.

ABOUT DIESEL FIREMEN

SAFETY NOT AN ISSUE

THE KELLOCK ROYAL COMMISSION FOUND:

Firemen are not required on freight and yard diesels on Canadian Pacific for safety or any other reason.

Their functions have either totally disappeared or are a mere duplication of what is discharged by others.

When the KELLOCK ROYAL COMMISSION findings take effect May 11:

Two Men—

The engineer and the fireman will remain just as now, in the cab of every passenger diesel locomotive.

Two Men-

The engineer and the head-end trainmanwill be in the cab of every road freight diesel locomotive.

Four Men-

The engineer in the cab, and the ground crew of three, will control the movements of yard diesel locomotives.

m the Wheat Queen Ain't I'? Her Centennial Ears Are Burning By DAVE COWLISHAW woman wearing the big sfraw hat took up two heavy silver award plaques from the and plaques. And mentioned in the Anthology, too. It's not table in the kitchen of her home and banged them toevery day you meet a Wheat Queen and I've been the Wheat Queen for ages."

For 12 years, actually. Ever since 1946 when, at the Chi-cago International Grain and Livestock Exposition, she astonished the wheat experts of the continent with a spring wheat grain it took her months to perfect; grown be-tween trees on a six-acre fruit ranch in the Kootenay Valley.

She also won the world wheat championship and $2,000 cash award donated by the Canadian National Railways in as the Reward wheat, the grain has led its creator a fantastic, virtually faultless race over the ribbonstrewn hurdles to the pinnacle of wheat development. Mrs. Kelsey's wheat has won her the Wheat Queen title four times, usually walking off with it before a large field of both Canadian and American experts. Her total number of prizes-for oats, corn and livestock feed, as well as for wheat—is 52;

. The way grey-haired Mrs. Kelsey sees it, there's no point to being a wheat-grower any more now she has tasted the farmer's greatest glory, chief of the wheaters.

"But I do think I should be in the centennial celebrations," she huffed as she toyed with a piece of driftwood in her garden.

"No other province has a wheat queen. Just British Columbia. It's only logical that I should have a place in this year's celebrations To this end, she told The Times she has written to the

B.C. Centennial Committee suggesting the provincial agriculture minister "petition the manager of the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto to send B.C. the perpetual wheat trophy so we can exhibit it in Victoria, along with all my photographs and ribbons."

Mrs. Kelsey also wants the provicial archivist to build an exhibition, with her portrait as centre."

"I am unique," she added. am someone the other rinces don't have and cannot copy. It's awful when I have to do all the planning and suggesting myself."

Contacted by The Times this morning, local centennial officials had "never heard" of

Said office manager C. J. Cox: "We have no knowledge of her in this office. I frankly did not know her as the Wheat Queen, or that she lived in Victoria."

Elderly Mrs. Kelsey-"I'm

65, but you can tell them I look more like 50"—is not dismayed. Just angry.

"As a famous British Columbian I have a position in the celebrations. I'm just as important to this province as all those other famous

And with that U.K. born character Amy Grace Kelsey, four-times Wheat Queen and self-styled "B.C. character," returned her big straw hat to her head and went off to right another letter to the B.C. Centennial Committee.

The B.C. Employees' Association, that usually levelheaded group of civil servants, has pulled an enon

This occurred when the appropriate members of the ociation chose the board of judges to decide the winner in the Centennial Beard Growing Contest.

Mind you, I might also add the association pulled a booloo in staging the contest in the first place, but that would be rude, so I won't add it.

Besides which, there is weight in numbers, and no less than 138 members of the association have entered And, as every schoolchild knows, 138 pounds of whiskers weigh every bit as much as 138 pounds of lead. But the fact of the matter is, no matter how worthy the choice of judges is all wrong. In the first place, there is Laurie Wallace, Admittedly, Laurie Wallace qualifies as a Centennial chap, being the chairman of THE committee.

But does Mr. Wallace have a beard? No. Mr. Wallace does not have a beard. And as for the second judge, Floyd Ashton, Mr. Ashton may lay claim to qualification as judge, he being a barber by trade and, as such, likely to have had some experience with chin whiskers. But does Mr. Ashton have a beard?

No, Mr. Ashton does not have a beard. As for the third judge, little can be said for his qualifications. He not only does not have a beard, he knows little or nothing about beards.

He does not even like beards. As far as he is concerned, beards are strictly for stuffing muffs.

So there is the horrible booboo committed by the B.C. Employees Association in choosing the judges who will decide on the best beards displayed at the association meeting Monday evening at 8—three beardless wonders.

Mr. Wallace, Mr. Ashton, and me.

May the best beard win, but I doubt it.

Q. "Will you please explain sub-fighters. just what 'bargaining rights' and a "lockout" means in labor matters?"-H. L.

A. Bargaining rights are written in the labor laws. They set up a procedure for employees (or unions) to bargain collectively with employ-ers under protection of the law. Lockout, generally speaking, is the reverse of a strike. In this case the em-ployer closes the door of his plant to employees instead of, as in a strike, the employees refusing to go to work be cause of a dispute.

.. Sports Begin

Maytime marks completion of the year's scholastic achievement for many a young Victoria student and beginning of a summer's activity for the outdoor sports enthusiast. On today's page we present two representative groups: Graduate nurses and technicians of St. Joseph's Hospital, whose commencement exercises take place Sunday at the Royal Theatre, and members of Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club who this month begin their summer season of play on new and improved courts.

Ready for Centennial Summer

Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club members are doing their utmost to make an outstanding showing for B.C.'s Centennial Summer. With greatly increased junior and senior membership and improved court facilities, the club is ready for the biggest year in its history, which dates back to the 1880s.

The club will again be host to B.C. Open Charapionships in addition to handicap and one-day mixer Under able direction of former city champion Ted Smythe, junior development program includes free coaching to all club juniors. This program is already in full swing with large-scale turnouts of both sexes in the eight to 16-year age group.

Activity this year will be highlighted by high creased social activities beluding bridge parties, dances and mixer-tournaments.

Although proud of its larger membership, the club is striving for more players to make use of its fine new facilities.

An informal grouping of members on the clubhouse veranda includes Daisy McCubbin, Pauline Blay, Bill McCubbin and Daphne Gill, standing on porch, and R. G. Robertson, Joan Woolison, Phyllis Christian and Edythe McCormick,

Wedding Vows This Morning

Church of the Sacred Heart was scene of a ceremony this morning when Marilyn Joyce Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon Thomas, ex-changed vows with John Michael Cummings, son of Mr, and Mrs. Joseph J. Cummings of St. Thomas, Ont.

Father B. Hanley conducted the ceremony.

The bride walked up the aisle on her father's arm. She wore a waltz-length gown of white brocaded satin. A headdress held her shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of red reses, lily-of-the-valley and white heather. She wore a strand of pearls as her only jewelry.

Miss Astrid Strandlie, maid of honor, wore a blue dress 'n similar style to the bride's gown. She carried a bouquet of Jonquire roses, lily of the valley and white heather.

ave made a sound nonvulnerable overcall. You now find yourself in four spades doubled. You are sure from the bidding that the ace of diamonds is held by East so you count two diamond and three club losers. If you also lose a trump trick you will be down 500 for a very bad duplicate score.
You also note that
East and West will play

You are South and

East South West North

Double Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead— $\psi$ 4 to the only chance to get a decent duplicate score is tricks against an uneven break in trumps. If any one is going to hold three trumps it will be East. Then what is the best percentage play to keep some heart contract at most other tables and from losing a trump trick?

The play is to get to dummy by ruffing a heart and to lead the spade jack. If this loses to a singleton queen COUPLE DESIRE JOB HOUSE. Half you time and color heeper and bandyman looking and the England Desires of the other three spades you lose no spade trick. You may have to go back to dument again, but there is the property of time.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Why does a bullwhip crack? Because tis tip breaks the sound barrier.
That conslusion was reported Friday by two U.S. naval research laboratory scientist. It was based on some complicated research undertaken to back up an educated guess.

They found that the theory—that the whip cracks because leather hits leather—is wrong.

What happens is this: The motion of the whipper's hand-only 30 or 40 feet a second develops into a 1,400-feet-a-second velocity for the whip's tip. This is well over the sound barrier-1,100 feet a second.

DUTCH TREATS FOR PRINCE

Just old enough to wave a Canadian flag for Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands Sunday are Victoria's "Dutch treats"-triplet sons born at home to Mrs. Gerard Suijskens in December when she could not afford to go to hospital. Sympathetic Victorians flooded the home with gifts and money. Young Dutch-Canadians, from left, are Reli, Simon and Stephen. See story, Page 3. (Photo by Robin Clarke.)

CALCUTTA, India (UP)—The West Bengal government today imposed stiff restrictions on social affairs in an effort to help alleviate an acute food shortage.

The government decreed that no rice or wheat products may be served at weddings, parties, funerals or more than 50 other specific occasions where more than 100 guests have been invited.

The revival of the wartime order was prompted by near famine conditions reported from many districts in West Bengal as a result of a prolonged drought.

Many parents, unable to feed their children, have been selling them. Some have resorted to eating weeds and grass

The new Parliament must now get down to

From the Prime Minister's statement that he hopes to conclude he session before the Commonwealth trade conference in September it appears that he is not planning a lengthy or controversial legislative program.

But if no important new statutes are proposed, the Government's first budget, already too long delayed, will represent, in omnibus form, its general approach to all public business. The first question facing the Government (and no doubt settled in the cabinet chamber already) is whether taxes should be reduced to stimulate the economy. This is an extremely difficult and delicate issue about which economists are in open dispute, a question which has sharply divided the Congress of the United

On the one hand, the business recession has not begun to lift in Canada nearly as fast as Mr. Diefenbaker expected a few months ago. On the other, his Government faces a huge budgetary deficit without any tax cut as a result of its great in creases in expenditure and the fall of its revenues.

It might rightly be asked whether a still larger deficit, created by a tax cut, would have any useful effect. How large must the deficit be to satisfy the Keynesian pump-primers?

Clearly Mr. Diefenbaker has had second thoughts on that question and on the economic process as a

rates. His latest speeches show that he understands better now the causes of the slump. They are mainly the result, he says, of a fall in our export markets. This, of course, was the view of the former Government and of the Bank of Canada.

It follows that the position of our foreign trade is more important at the moment than the figures of the budgets or the price of borrowed money. A Conservative budget deficit has not cured the recession any more than a Liberal surplus caused A drastic fall in the Bank of Canada's interest rates has produced no magic, as the Government expected, rather naively, a year ago. The paramount economic question, as Mr. Diefenbaker said a few days ago at Winnipeg, is whether we can halt the inflationary spiral of wages and prices before we further mage our exports.

What has the Government to say about that? And as another vital part of its answer, how does it prose to deal with the tariff, a vital factor in foreign trade?

How far will it go in providing protection for certain central Canadian industries at the expense of the Canadian consumer and possibly of British exporters to the nadian market?

Finally, Parliament is entitled to know, at least in broad terms, what objectives the Government will pursue at the Commonwealth con-

The forthcoming session as a whole is likely to be dull since a shrunken Opposition is unable and should be unwilling to harass the new Government which deserves the fullest opportunity to develop its

Nevertheless, it will be one of the most important sessions of modern times. For it must reveal, before it has gone far, the true character and real thoughts (as distinguished from. election oratory) of a Government certain to be in office for at least

PRECOCIOUS SUMMER HAS A bloomed for Victoria and once again citizens are making their ways to the beaches.

As in previous years they find one attractive stretch of waterfront, from St. Charles Street to Howe, marked with signs warning prospective swimmers of pollution from the sewer outlet in Ross Bay!

This may be a relatively minor loss to the public. The water off that section of coast is cold. But in Little Ross Bay native rock formations almost form a natural pool. At very little expense the sheltered area could be enclosed by small concrete sections filling up the existing

The proposal to make a children's pool at Little Ross Bay has been discussed on many occasions. Those discussions have come to nothing because the water which would be admitted from the sea is polluted. But there is a way around this difficulty. Victorians frequently talk in place.

about constructing an outdoor pool. If it were away from the shoreline it would presumably be filled with Little Ross Bay, it seems, could be treated the same way. Nature has provided a basin for which only a few plugs are required. If the necessary concrete work were done. the pool could be filled with fresh water. An ideal place would be provided for children to enjoy the water and possibly learn to swim.

Moreover, at modest expense, the city could use the development to see if an outdoor swimming pool is feasible in this community.

Extensive work has been done at the other end of Big Ross Bay, in the Clover Point region. It could be nicely complemented by a children's pool at the other tip of the crescent. And some effort would at least have been made to compensate for the restriction of waterfront use caused the pollution warning signs now

Let's Draw the Curtain

MAGAZINE REVEALS THAT drunkenness is increasing in Russia and its satellites. During the past few years liquor consumption has increased by 25 per cent in Czechoslovakia and Hungary, the report says; while in Poland the increase was 40 per cent last year. Witnesses are quoted as having seen much drunkenness in Moscow among

The explanation given is that the drabness of life behind the Iron Curtain is driving people to drink in an effort to escale their environment. The "ant heap" existence is tee unrewarding for human beings, however efficient it may be for the state's economy, it is suggested. The indi-vidual must take refuge in alcoholic stupor in order to endure the life which faces him.

Now that sounds like a logical explanation. But it has a familiar ring to it. In fact it is the same reason which we, in our environment, give for the same alcoholic results. The difference is that in our case, instead of drabness and barrenness in our lives, the western drinker drinks because of the hectic, kaleidoscopic activity of his environment He must take alcohol to soothe his nerves and make him able to cope with the bustle and change reason on that side of the Iron Curtain and drinking for the opposite reason on this side of the Iron Curtain. The one factor in common is that human beings are on both sides of the Curtain. And perhaps that is the basic reason after all.

The Ladies Are Stepping Out

IN GENEVA THE OTHER DAY the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women again reviewed the status of women. Among other things, the commission decided laws should be passed preventing women from marrying until they

But while the commission was concerned over the young ladies of 12 or so who are frequently led to altar, or its equivalent, often with little to say about who shall be the groom, the members were also deeply interested in the political freedoms being won by the so-called weaker sex.

They reported gains. Reports showed that in recent years women had won equal political rights in 70 countries and were increasing their participation in public affairs. Canada, it was noted, now has a woman Secretary of State.

There seemed to be an underlying feeling that a lot of women, having in them than a lo of men. They fought for the privi-lege of voting and exercised the natural human inclination to stay away from the polls. That, by convention in many western countries, marks the stage just beyond political

In answer to a letter by G. F. Beale agree with his viewpoint to a point. But there are other ways of disposing of municipal waste than dumping it into a hole in the ground, so as to fill 4t up where it will breed rats and insects as well as disease, etc.

There are also ways other than burn ing the garbage which would be an eye sore in the district with its ashes, smoke and flies, not to mention the expense involved. Or having it dumped out at sea to be washed back on our beaches. Dr. J. F. T. Berliner, Ph.D., chemical and engineering consultant, 2710 South Parkway, Chicago 16, Illinois, U.S.A., states that municipal waste can be made into organic plant food in the space of 21

He also states that all waste can be used, such as raw garbage, tin cans, bottles, rags, paper, etc.

Dr. Berliner also states there is no such nuisance as smoke, fumes, dust, odors, vermin, unsightly dumps, danger to children, breeding areas for insects and disease. There would be no stream or water pollution or destruction of land values. There is no drainage, sewage or waste from the process.

A plant of this kind described by Dr. Berliner could be built close to the city. The one he describes is located at Mo Keesport, Pa., U.S.A., and was built for the sum of $250,000, and can handle 150 tons per 8-hour day. This plant is paying for itself out of the sale of the product. HERBERT WATSON.

Only Age Knows the Value of the Emperor's Cabbages

IT was the fashionable ambition of every Roman Emperor to retire, after he had murdered all his friends and conquered the known world, to some little farm beside the Appenines and there grow cabbages. A vegetable garden was the final reward of imperial power. But with some two thousand years, of progress we have at last discovered that it is not necessary to murder one's friend or conquer the world in order to grow vegetables. They will grow quite well in the soil of Canada without

Hutchison Hutchison blood, tears or con-quest (though not without toil and sweat). For a small investment an dinary Canadian may enjoy all the pleasures of an aged emperor.

A GE, perhaps, is necessary to the enjoyment of a vegetable garden. The thing requires a maturity of mind sel-dom found in the young. By a cruel paradox a man is usually almost too weak in body to grow vegetables before he finds pleasure in them; for the pleas is solely in the mind. philosopher will grow vegetables when he can buy them, much cheaper neatly wrapped in cellophane, at any

Dr. Johnson (a great philosopher but limited in his philosophy since he grew nothing and was never happy beyond the streets of London) once said that by growing more food than any family a man was seldom more harmlessly encan possibly consume. In the home of a man was seldom more harmlessly en-gaged than when he was making money. That view is not popular today when the making of money is regarded as something like a crime and is drastically is regarded as penalized by law but even the thought-ful radical and egalitarian will agree that a man is harmlessly engaged in growing vegetables. Yet there are lingering doubts even on that score, MAN with a well-developed social conscience may feel a twinge of guilt as he places seeds in the earth, for he is thereby contributing to the surplus of the agricultural industry. He is creating real wealth, and the creation of real wealth is an occupation generally suspect in this well-managed era like boot-legging, moonlighting and other forms racketeering.

Hardened by age, however, a man learns to disregard the conscience of so-ciety and his own. Often, in my younger days, I have paused, doubtful and con-science-stricken in the very act of de-positing the first radish seed of the season, realizing that, by creating real wealth, I might disturb the delicate balance of the economy and injure some defenceless farmer. Still, I always managed to subdue my better nature after a hard struggle.

INSERTING the first seed is like extracting the first olive out of the bottle. The rest follow. One may start with very modest plans, only a few square feet of earth but one always ends

When we have finally perfected this almost-perfect economic system and improved our present rather crude code of regulation the private vegetable grower regulation the private vegetable grower will be exterminated by law along with all the other social saboteurs. In a few more years, never doubt it, the state will require a man to have a licence before he can grow anything more eco-nomically dangerous than flowers.

Therefore, if you wish to indulge in this desperate sport you had better start immediately, for little time is left. The all-wise state will soon move into your backyard. An army of inspectors will discover, for all your attempts to con-ceal them, a row of bootleg carrots and a secret hoard of illegal broad beans growing between your licensed rows of petunias. You will end in the police court with those horrid exhibits laid before the magistrate like contraband liquor or habit-forming drugs.

THAT is the trouble with vegetable growing-it is indeed habit-forming and quite incurable. Nevertheless, as I laid out my thirty-fourth successive an nual garden it occurred to me that I was performing the only useful act of my life. The same thing must have irred to many other sedentary and superflous wage-earners.

A vast and growing multitude of modern men creates nothing that society could not do very well without. It could do very well, for example, without the work I am performing at this mome as I am frequently reminded by many

THERE are numerous others, some in very high and well-paid places, of whom the same could be said, but I leave them to their own consciences and to the taxpayers who pay their wages. Every man must settle these nice questions of honor for himself.

But any man who wastes his whole day at an office doing things better left undone can redeem himself, in these long spring evenings, by producing at least something of value. He can feed him-self, in part anyway, and there will always be some extra supply for his

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

He Would Whip Up the Horses and Trot Along cycle engines, then headed out into

IT is perhaps difficult to picture it now but there was a day, not so very long ago, when the streets of Victoria were innocent of the exhaust fumes of sightseeing buses. When the West Saanich Road was a dirt farm road of sharp curves and sudden and steep little and rises; of ces where the wagon wheels rolled over live rock. There was no Butchart's gardens then to thrill the preswho "do" these lovely spots as though they were on some sort of pilgrimage so that Sivertz when they have returned to Kansas, o Wisconsin, or Indiana they may say: "My dear, it was simply wonderful—a riot of roses and islands of gorgeous flowers on velvet lawns on the bottom of what had been a rock quarry."

Instead someone had conceived the brilliant idea of meeting the steamers with four-horse tallyhos with large rubber-tired wheels on sleek white-enamelled bodies. I believe their success was in stant and during the summer season the tourists were trotted about the lovely old between the arrival and departure of the ships on the famed triangle run. It was just possible, in the time avail-able, to go through the downtown section of the city, out to Beacon Hill Park, along the waterfront to Oak Bay and back to the Canadian Pacific wharves, Gordon Head, to Cedar Hill and Cordova Bay or to the nicely patterned farm lands of Saanich, and Butchart's Gardens, as Butchart's fertile mind.

But there was then, and is now, a tiny deep backwater of the Saanich Arm just a good, lusty stone's throw from the present garden paradise which was then a very, very dusty stone quarry from which the Butcharts hauled the rock to be crushed into powder in their

The name of this backwater is Tod Inlet and it was then more sought by fishermen than Brentwood is today largely because there existed at that time no such pleasant spot as Brentwood on the fine sunny site from which ply the ferries to Mill Bay.

One reached Tod Inlet by the simple expedient of boarding the old V & S railway at Victoria, riding its dusty and swaying carriages to Keatings and transferring to a stage coach—really!

It was a wonderful ride in strawberry time and if one was reasonably fast afoot he could jump down at hill, leap a fence and snatch a handful of sun-ripe strawberries and race ahead to catch the stage before the horses started to trot down the next slope. At Tod Inlet the driver held his team hard and his foot was pressed down on the brake as the stage seemed to want to override horses on the last steep decline.

And here was the little cement mill with everything in a shroud of light grey dust; the workers' gardens bravely battling the relentlessly encroaching pall of infinitely fine particles that rained down on the earth endlessly.

Like as not one would find Mrs. Butchart-in their early days-carrying out tests of their product in the tiny chemist shop in which the quality of Butchart's cement was constantly checked.

And as the fishermen stowed their gear and wrestled with their tiny two-

Saanich Arm to troll for salmon, none ever thought that the unsightly, dusty stone quarry would ever become a thing of internationally known beauty. Before this, digression intervened I started to tell you about our first tallyhos and in particular of one of the earliest drivers of the "four-in-hand" He was a monstrous man, almost as wide as he was tall and the only name people knew him by was "Winnipeg." His voice was as raucous as that of a circus barker but there was in him a wealth of geniality and he regaled his passengers with wondrous tales of the places, homes and people they passed on their sightseeing tour with him. His route skirted Beacon Hill Park

Douglas Street and he would leave his load of tourists gaping when he called out: "Ladies and gentlemen, on your right is Goodacre Lake; it has no inlet or outlet but is fed by the weeping willows on its banks."

And he would whip up the horses and trot along, shaken by deep, rumbling chuckles while his passengers wondered how much of what he had told them was pure eyewash.

MANY PEOPLE ARE SHOCKED

Contemporaries and Contretemps: The Arts in Review

trymen have cause

Maclean's Magazine for Maciean's Magazine for commissioning nine B.C. painters to pro-duce work for publica-tion in the current issue. The seven-page portfolio makes an eyecatching spread, and has given rise to much heated discussion, to judge from my own acquaintance. Many people are shocked to discover that B.C.'s best artists are what they call "modernistic," although they might have been prepared for this by the statements of curators and critics over the past three or four years, if they had bothered to listen.

I am sure you will not expect me to run through the art history of the last 100 years in order to explain to you contemporary artist paints as sible books which will tell you all about it. I would rather take this opportunity to temper my gratitude to Maclean's with a little criticism.

First, the choice of artists. I was surprised at the omission of Herbert Siebner, who is certainly worth a place in the first half-dozen. As a painter he

I would certainly have preferred Her-I would certainly have preferred Her-bert Gilbert or Jim Macdogald to Lawfen Harris, whose prestige and personality have apparently blinded a good many people to the feebleness of his recent painting. If anything deserves the epithet "modernistic." Harris's "Mountain Spirit" does; it betrays a complete misconce tion of the nature and purpose of art.

The caption refers to a "massive realism" which I for one have not found in Harris's painting—not even in the early work which made his name: when the phrase is applied to a spiky trio of Christmas puddings surmounted by a flickering brandy flame it sounds particularly foolish.

Ed Hughes's "Gabriola Island" is anher disappointment. The best paintings of this artist succeed admirably in conveying the spirit of the Gulf Islands they are simple and candid and artless. This one, apart from the freshly handled art schoolery.

I am not hysterical about some of the others, either. Plaskett offers the manner of Cezanne without the substance; Bruno Bobak gives us Milne-and-Piper with a dash of Sutherland, as a change from Nash-and-Piper with a dash of Bawden; Molly Bobak's selection does

Of the nine artists reproduced only Jack Shadbolt, Gordon Smith and Bert

Binning could confidently stake their reputations on the works which repre-sent them. The Smith and Shadbolt paintings I find especially good; Binning's assembly of all his favorite motifs is almost too typical — almost, indeed, self-parody.

If I had to rank these artists on the basis of this evidence alone they would come out in roughly this order: Smith, Shadbolt, Binning, Bruno Bobak, Plaskett, Molly Bobak, Korner, Hughes, Harris.

I am fairly sure that a province-wide popular poll would more or less reverse these standings, though I should like to think that all of us, whether we wield pen, peevy or power-saw, seine-net or slide-rule, would agree about the Harris

Turning to the Centennial Anthology I find that it has given reasonably good nictorial coverage to the art of our prov-nce, though there are some surprising

Ed Hughes is more worthily represented; works by Siebner and Gilbert appear, if only in a colored shot of the Vancouver Gallery which also shows a good specimen of John Korner's work; and some of the younger B.C. artists

THOSE of us who spend their spare can, to say the least, hold his own with time "selling" the merits of British any of those reproduced; as a graphic unfair to pass judgment on the miserably.

But there is ho attempt evaluation of the art of our years, nor is there any historical account of the growth of the arts in our province. I should myself have welcomed brief histories of the Vancouver Art School, the Vancouver and Victoria Art Galleries and symphony orchestras, will account of the theatre in B.C. with some

The literary content, as is only to be expected in a compilation of this sort, Is extremely variable.

I think very little of the choppy, scissors-and-paste layout of the first section, "Days of Our Years," which detracts from the "readability" of some interesting material. The photographs are wholly delightful, especially those by Herbert Gilbert. I only wish there had been more. had been more.

The really outstanding achievement of this anthology resides in its design and typography. Bob Reid, in producing the handsomest volume that I have yet all the printed matter for our centennial was not put firmly in his sole charge. He would not have provided us with a car sticker that resembled a Gujarati matchbox label. nor could he possibly have passed some of the posters which, in ainfing to advertise our province, proclaim only our provinciality. claim only our provinciality.

NEW YORK (AP) - Economic signposts in the United States still pointed lower this

All was not gloom, however. Despite the latest rash of pessimistic business reports, the New York stock market reached high ground for the year.

Leading producers of oil, shoes and textiles professed to see signs of an upturn in the months ahead.

Also inclined toward cautious optimism were those two citadels of financial conservatism, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the First Na-tional City Banks. Both said the economic downturn seems to be

The Long View

COURTENAY ARGUS-With the stage apparently set for formation of a Greater District Water Board for the Comox Valley, we hope the various municipal areas and intervening districts involved will not tarry when they meet

We say the stage apparent ly set because the government has completed its survey of water resources in this area and the basic information presumably is available to make the necessary decisions on proceeding and on the general form of approach.

Our thoughts are prompted by the fact that water supply, unfortunately, more than once has been a contentious issue in the Comox Valley. We say openly now, we hope there will be no division between the "haves" and the "havenots" on the setting up of a district water board.

parking at NANAIMO FERRY TERMINAL

For the convenience of the public, Canadian Pacific now provides a special parking lot at the Nanaimo Ferry Terminal for drivers wishing to leave their cars while visiting the Mainland.

Charges are very nominal ... you may park up to 12 hours for only 50c. And you have the advantages of a lot that is properly fenced, checked regularly, fully illuminated and conveniently located.

The new Canadian Pacific lot is a public service. It is a sincere effort to relieve the parking congestion at the regular Canadian Pacific terminal lot-which, in fairness, is now limited to one hour free parking for Canadian Pacific patrons.

Coaches 'Goading' Boys to Win

TORONTO (CP) - The president of the Canadian General Council of Boy Scouts Association Friday night criticized unsportsmanship-like behavior in many boys' sports activities.

Rhys M. Sale, president of ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, said: "We can do without the un necessary brutality, blood-letting and poor sportsmanship that characterize even some of the junior, juvenile and midget games these days."

He told the council's annual meeting:
"What I cannot comprehend who goads is the adult coach who goads the boys with a win-at-any-cost psychology, even to the point of teaching tactics that turn decent games into nothing short of cious brawls."

PARENTS SELL CHILDREN IN FAMINE-HIT BENGAL

CALCUTTA, India (UP)—The West Bengal government today imposed stiff restrictions on social affairs in an effort to help alleviate an acute food shortage.

The government decreed that no rice or wheat products may be served at weddings, parties, funerals or more than 50 other specific occasions where those than 100 guests have been invited.

The revival of the wartime order was prompted by near famine conditions reported from many districts in West Bengal as a result of a prolonged drought. Many parents, unable to feed their children, have been selling them. Some have resorted to eating weeds and grass
